DRUGGIST BARES DEALS IN LIQUOR PERMITS BONDS NET THE CITY OF DECATUR PAR

NASHVILLE BIDDER SUCCESSFUL FIRM AT MEETING TODAY

Council Receives Cost in Amount Sought for the Bonds

PAVING CONTRACT TO BE LET TONIGHT

Work on Streets Now Can Go Forward at an Early Date

Ed Dean, representing Caldwell company, of Nashville, Tenn., at Friday purchased Decatur's paving bond issue of approximately $300,000.

The purchasers paid par for the bonds. In addition the purchasers will incur interest and all expenses of printing the issue, and attorney's fees for inquiring into the legal status of the issue.

The sale at the figure agreed on morning means that the City of Decatur will net $300,000 for the bonds and that the paving plans may go forward immediately. The city will meet Friday evening to let the contract for the streets, it is stated.

The projected street improvements include practically all of the streets not now improved. The project is one of the largest paving programs taken by any municipality in Alabama in recent years.

The city council announced some time ago that the bonds would not be sold for less than par and has been fastidiously held to that figure. Bids at a meeting of the council week offered as high as a fraction more than 98 for the issue, but were rejected and the demand for more even more insistent. Since time the finance committee and Mr. Nelson have been conducting negotiations with many bond buyers, resulting in the sale this morning at a figure demanded by the city.

THE HOPE HELD FOR CREW OF SUB

(Associated Press)

KIO, March 21—Although rescue is being continued vigorously, it grew here today that 18 survivors, imprisoned in the after compartment of the Japanese navy submarine 43, which has lain 26 fathoms on the ocean bottom since Wednesday have succumbed from suffocation. Signals from the vessel have ceased.

Attempts to raise the stern of the vessel have failed. It is now planned to try to raise the bow.

Twenty six men of the crew, drowned in the forward compartment of the vessel after a collision with a warship, appears now that the remaining survivors are smothered in the foul air of the aft's quarters.

The official vote was: M. A. Dinsmore, 20,041; L. B. Musgrove, 39,837; W. Underwood, 65,798. As a result of the primary, Senator Underwood is empowered to name the Alabama delegation to the democratic national convention.

MINISTER FROM TOP OF AMERICA WILL SPEAK AT CHURCHES HERE

He Will Bring Message From Land Where $95 Is Paid for Coal

The topmost point on the North American continent is Point Barrow, Alaska. It is 1,000 miles farther north by latitude than Labrador. There the thermometer frequently registers 50 degrees below zero, and coal is sold for $95 per ton. Mail arrives but twice a year, and travel at night is good, since the sun hangs on the Southern horizon at 1 o'clock a. m. It is the land of the Eskimos who have suffered much from the treatment of the white man, and have been infected with his diseases.

A few years ago, the Presbyterian church built at this place, at a great cost, a twenty bed hospital which serves the people for 600 miles around. This institution has saved the people from extinction by disease.

Rev. F. H. Spence M. D. and his wife were there for five years building this hospital, and ministering to the bodies and souls of these people. They saw every adult in the town a member of the church. Dr. Spence is now traveling under the board of national missions of the Presbyterian church, and is visiting a few of the churches in Alabama. He will speak Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at Westminster Presbyterian church and at 7 p. m. at Willoughby church in South Albany.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN MEN AT BANQUET

The men of the First Presbyterian church of Decatur enjoyed a delightful banquet as the guests of John D. Wyker, in the dining room of the Lyons hotel last night. J. Walter Clouton acted as toastmaster.

A number of short speeches were made concerning the opportunities for men in church and religious work, after which an organization was formed to be called "The Men of the Church," with Major Hal Long as president, E. P. Kingsbury, secretary, and Earl Calvin, treasurer.

A constitution was adopted which provides that vice presidents shall be the chairmen of the five departments of the work of the church, to be appointed soon by the executive committee.

Those who were present were loud in their praises of Mr. Wyker who made the meeting possible. They were the following: John D. Wyker, host, J. W. Clouton, toastmaster, John Ball, R. L. Smith, Jack Collas, T. G. Morrow, Hal Long, Arthur Jones, Earl Calvin, Earl Steel, H. C. McRee, E. P. Kingsbury, W. H. Strode, F. E. Littlefield, F. S. Hunt, Mr. Lively, C. C. Cox, L. L. Frazier, B. F. Holmes, Ernest Morrow, J. R. Nicholson, C. Houck and J. D. Wallace.

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 21—Every effort will be made to expedite action by the senate agricultural committee on the McKenzie bill authorizing acceptance of the Ford offer, Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, said today.

The committee now are engaged in hearing a stockyard bill and expect to take up the next proposed legislation, establishing a national reforesting policy, and Senator Harrison said the Muscle Shoals measure would be next in line.

TWO ARE TRIED FOR MURDER OF WIVES

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 21—The case of J. C. Cushman, charged with killing his wife, was expected to be in the hands of a jury this afternoon.

Cushman, testifying in his own behalf, asserted he was not in his right mind by reason of intemperance when he killed the woman. He said he knew nothing of the death of his wife until some hours after Mrs. Cushman was killed.

The case of Charles Ratliff, on trial in another division of the court on a charge of slaying his wife, was expected to go to the jury this afternoon. The state alleged that Ratliff killed his wife after a violent quarrel.

NABORS TO ADDRESS CHRISTIAN COUNCIL

The Christian council of the Twin Cities will hold its next meeting Sunday afternoon at the Ninth Street Methodist church, when Rev. A. H. Nabors of Cullman, who is the evangelist for the revival now in progress at the Ninth Street church will be the principal speaker.

The council was recently organized and a number of new departments of work established, with leaders for each department. It is expected that a number of important reports will be made to the council during its business session, which will precede the devotional services. W. L. Hatchett, the president will preside at Sunday afternoon's meeting.

Heaviest Snow of Year Is Falling

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 21—The heaviest snow of the year was falling in Washington today. Beginning about ten o'clock the snow fell steadily throughout the night and was continuing at 7:30 o'clock this morning, forming both a shroud on departing winter and a down blanket for the infant spring.

CHICAGO, March 21—Although spring is officially one day old in the mid-west, the entire section is in grip of a blizzard with snow four to 16 inches deep and wire snow crippled in some sections.

MORE HIGHWAYS IN MORGAN COUNTY IS KIWANIS CLUB GOAL

Movement Launched by Members to Hurry Building Plans

COMMITTEES TO TAKE UP MATTER

Chamber of Commerce and Exchange Club May Co-operate

The Morgan Kiwanis club meeting of this week resolved itself into a Morgan County good roads meeting before its close. The President of the club, W. W. Fussell, appointed a committee, to see the state highway commission of Alabama, and the board of revenue of Morgan County, in an effort to determine why this county "seems to have been left out" of the roads program.

It was the sentiment of the members of the club present that the Albany-Decatur chamber of commerce and the Exchange club be asked to cooperate in the effort to get at the bottom of why this county's road program is not a larger one.

Those organizations will be asked to appoint committees similar to the one organized by the Kiwanis. The committee for the Kiwanis club is as follows: Lamar Penney, J. W. Clouton and M. S. Bingham.

It was pointed out that in 1914, the highway in Morgan County, between the Twin Cities and Hartselle and Falkville was begun, and that it had not been finished now.

It was shown that unless something was done about it, the road from here connecting to the Courtland pike and to the pike from Courtland to Tusculum would continue to remain almost impassable.

Reports were made by President Fussell, T. M. Dix and S. A. Lynne, of the Kiwanis Club meeting recently held in Birmingham which was addressed by Edward Arras, president of the Kiwanis International.

Decision has been reached by officials of the chamber of commerce and of the Exchange club to cooperate with those interested in larger accomplishments in road building in the county, and some committeemen have been named by the chamber of commerce and the Exchange club, which members will cooperate with the road committee appointed by the Kiwanis club.

A joint meeting of these committees will be held Monday.

Walter Makin Will Lead Revival Choir

Walter H. Makin, of Birmingham, well known singer and choir director, has been secured by Dr. James D. Hunter, pastor of the Central Methodist church, to lead the singing for the revival campaign of the Central Methodist church which opens April 6 and will continue to April 20, Easter Sunday.

Mr. Makin is one of the best known singers of the South. At the recent national convention of the Anti-Saloon league held at Washington city, Mr. Makin was the musical director. In addition to his other business, Mr. Makin has for over twenty years led church choirs and especially the song services at Y. M. C. A. meetings. During the world war Mr. Makin was active as a "Y" singer. He is at present director of the music for the Norwood church at Birmingham.

ATTORNEYS ARGUE MORE QUIZZING OF SINCLAIR IS WRONG

More Time to Study the Arguments Results in Adjournment

PROBERS UNABLE TO DECIDE ISSUE

Inconclusive Battle Is Waged to Prevent Him Testifying

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 21—Counsel for Harry F. Sinclair waged an inconclusive two hour legal battle with the oil committee today in an effort to have their client excused from further questioning.

Challenging the committee's authority to proceed with the inquiry after the validity of the leases already had been passed upon in a resolution of congress and contending, that in all fairness and justice, Sinclair should not be compelled to testify while charges of fraud are pending against him in court, Martin W. Littleton, of the Sinclair counsel, told committee members that their course was a "monstrous proposition and an outrage."

Senator Walsh, the committee prosecutor, agreed with the Sinclair attorney but some committeemen wanted more time to think it over and adjournment was taken without an agreement.

The argument will be resumed tomorrow probably in open session. The senate investigators are prepared to question Sinclair on a wide range of subjects, some of which have been gone into rather exhaustively through other witnesses, and others of which have not yet been touched upon.

Among the new phases is a story that the New York Oil magnate turned over a large batch of securities to Will H. Hays, former postmaster general, and Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty to wipe out the deficit of the republican national committee incurred in the 1920 campaign.

Ferry Accounts Are Before Court

A hearing is in progress before Marvin West, registrar in chancery, at the county court house, relative to a settlement of the accounts of the partnership of Pitts and Walker, well known ferrymen and prominent citizens of the Twin Cities.

The interests of Mr. Pitts are in the hands of A. J. Harris, as attorney, while the interests of Mr. Walker are in the hands of attorneys S. A. Lynne and Melvin Hutson.

One of the largest items coming under consideration, is the purchase price paid by Meyer and Spencer for two ferry boats formerly the property of Walker and Pitts, said price being $4,700. This amount and other amounts are to be divided between Messrs. Walker and Pitts.

Both Judge Osceola Kyle and Judge James E. Horton have instructed Mr. West to take a record of the claims of both men, and present a written statement of them.

It is expected that Mr. West will make two reports when he hearing is completed, one to Judge Horton and one to Judge Kyle.

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 21—American bluejackets are to remain in Tegucigalpa, capital of Honduras, until American lives and property are afforded adequate protection by the Honduran authorities.

Instructions to keep a detachment ashore with an especially watchful eye on the American legation and consulate, were forwarded to the commander of the cruiser Milwaukee yesterday by the navy department after a consultation with the state department.

Stays Noose to Confess "Guilty" in Murder Case

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 21—Bennie Cantelou, negro, paid with his life on the gallows this morning at six o'clock for the slaying of Mrs. Susan Mastin, aged woman, who was killed in the fall of 1921 as robbery declared by the court as the motive.

Cantelou denied his guilt until the final minute, when he stayed the noose and confessed the crime.

PRACTICAL SERMON AT CENTRAL BAPTIST

"If a horse falls down on the pavement, the blacksmith will come and see if caused from shoes, the harness man to see if the harness was wrong, and the carriage man to examine the shafts, etc., but when a man or a woman falls, we need not be so concerned about the cause, but very much concerned about getting them saved," this was among several practical statements of Rev. Gid Higgenbotham's sermon Thursday night at the Central Baptist church.

"Am I My Brother's Keeper" was his subject, Gen. 4:9.

"The Lost Christ," will be the subject on Friday night. "Three Slackers" will be the subject Sunday night. At noon Saturday, the "Sunshine Chorus" will go with Mr. Elliot and Rev. Higgenbotham and sing for the employees of the L. and N. shops. Services at Silk Mill were at noon Friday. Many requests have been made for prayer, and much good is being done.

Local Boys Help in Scout Movement

A number of boys in Albany-Decatur are helping in the local Boy Scout organization plans, by sticking up posters throughout the Twin Cities showing the various activities of the Boy Scouts. "These lads earnestly want to be Scouts and become a part of this great brotherhood of boys. 1,500,000 strong, encircling the globe," says Mr. Shriner, national organizer now in this city" and to let this desire go unheeded, is to leave an unfilling spot in their hearts forever. There is no organization that has the same appeal to the boy as the Boy Scout movement. It is not necessary to corral membership in a Boy Scout troop. One simply has to announce that a troop is forming and the boys come of their own free will and accord and join, then the varied, seven day, interest gripping program does the rest."

HELPFUL SERMON IS GIVEN BY DR. SMITH

Dr. Alfred E. Smith delivered another of his helpful and inspiring gospel messages at the First Methodist church last night, taking the Fifth chapter of Mark as the basis of his sermon.

The Bible account of the healing of a man who was among the tombs and possessed by devils was read by the preacher, clear through to where the outcast devils entered into some swine, the animals going at once to their destruction.

The insidious treacherous character of sin and how sin fastens its self on so many respectable people was referred to a number of times by the speaker.

Thursday afternoon Dr. Smith spoke from the Psalms, using the declaration of the sacred writer to the effect that the steps of the righteous are ordered of God.

On Sunday it is expected a number will be received as members by the First Methodist church, Dr. Steele the pastor, stated.

WITHDRAWALS OF SCOTCH COST BIG SUMS, HE STATES

John Goroni Testifies He Paid $50,000 to Will Orr

BROKER DENIES STINSON STORY

Declares He Never Saw Jess Smith With 75 Thousand Bills

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 21—Unfolding a new maze of startling charges having to do with illicit withdrawals of whiskey in 1921 and which involved payments aggregating $200,000 John Goroni, president of the Alps drug company, of New York, today told the Daugherty investigating committee that the money was split six ways.

In brief Goroni testified as follows: $15 a case was paid for permits to withdraw the whiskey.

$15, Goroni said was split this way: $4 a case to the prohibition director in 1921.

$2 a case to Howard Mannington, one of Attorney General Daugherty's friends who had a little green house on K street.

$1 to the druggist in whose name the whiskey was withdrawn.

$1 to himself (Goroni).

50 cents to United States District Attorney L. E. Spaulding at New York.

$6.50 to Will A. Orr and Owen Murphy.

Mannington had to split his $2.00 three ways, Goroni said.

Orr told him that some of it went to Jess W. Smith, Attorney General Daugherty's friend.

"This committee needs the evidence of Howard Mannington, Senator Ashurst said. 'I have reason to believe there is a conspiracy with the Attorney General to spirit Howard Mannington away in Europe where he cannot be reached.'

"I have demanded that Secretary Hughes be asked to furnish the original application for Mannington's passport and that he be called to return."

"I understand that he is on the Dawes committee in Europe," Senator Wheeler put in.

"I deny every implication of wrongdoing on the part of the Attorney General in this proceeding," Mr. Howland said.

"Then I demand that you produce Howard Mannington," returned Senator Ashurst.

WASHINGTON, March 21—John Goroni, of the Alps Drug company, New York, told the Daugherty investigating committee that William A. Orr, had told him "that Howard Mannington, who had a desk in the little green house on K street" got $2.00 a case on liquor withdrawals, which he arranged.

Goroni said he once paid $50,000 to Orr.

Goroni said he also conferred with Thomas B. Felder, regarding the seizure of 7,000 cases of Scotch whiskey. Felder said he was a friend of the Attorney General's, so stated the witness and told him to go home and that he would get the liquor sooner or later.

Goroni said the money, in $1,000 bills, was collected from other parties one of whom is said to be John Linn, a liquor dealer who finally hanged himself.

Was Balance Owed.

The $50,000 was a balance, the witness said, that Linn owed Orr and Murphy on withdrawal papers.

"The money was for business of five drug companies in New York and Brooklyn," Goroni said.

Orr previously testified to aiding the companies but said the most he could remember handling was $6,000. Orr was selling withdrawal permits for $15 a case, the witness stated, and

MISS ALLIE CRUMPTON BECOMES BRIDE OF LAURENCE HEWLETT WEDNESDAY.

A marriage of unusual interest to hosts of friends and relatives throughout Alabama, was that of Miss Allie Crumpton, daughter of Rev. and Mrs.
Henry Tolbert Crumpton, of Brewton, and Laurence Hewlett of Montgomery which was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

A large number of relatives and friends witnessed the beautiful wedding ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Mr. Crumpton, father of the bride, at the home of Judge and Mrs. B. P. Crum, in Oak Park.

An artistic program of musical music was rendered on the violin and piano by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hewlett. During the ceremony, "At Dawning" (Cadmian) and "Love's Old Sweet Song" (Jacobs-Bond) were played. The bridal party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's march and Mendelssohn's wedding march was played for recessional.

The spacious rooms were lavishly decorated with rich green palms,
southern smilax and white rose buds.
In the drawing room where the ceremony was performed an improvised altar was erected of palms, as a background for tall white floor vases filled with plumosa and bride's roses. Massive candelabra burned white tapers.

To the strains of the wedding march
Miss Bennie Crum, cousin of the bride and her maid of honor, entered. She wore a lovely gown of citrus colored crepe, trimmed with ribbons of Madonna blue and heavily beaded in the same color. The accessories of the gown were of gold and silver wreath.
She carried a shower bouquet of pink
Killarney roses.

Mr. Hewlett was attended by Arlie
Brooks as best man.

Preceding the bride were the two little flower girls, Marjorie Washburn and Dorothy Lummus, who wore gowns of pink and blue chiffon and carried baskets of pink roses.

The bride and groom entered together. The bride wore a handsome Bonnie model of dark blue blistre crepe, beautifully embroidered with spring hat to match. The lovely bou-quet was a shower of bride's roses, with shower of valley lilies and white satin ribbons.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held. The bride's table in the dining room had a cloth of lace over green satin, and was centered with a silver basket of magnificent Francis Scott Key roses, and Farleyense fern. A three-tier wedding cake was beautifully embossed in pink roses, and was embedded in a mound of roses and valley lilies. White tapers in silver holders added to the beauty of the table.

Punch was served by Miss Agnes Brindley and Miss Mary Jane Lawson.

Later in the evening, Mr. Hewlett and his bride left for a wedding trip, after which they will make their home in Montgomery.

Guests from out of town, attending the marriage were Rev. and Mrs. H.
T. Crumpton, parents of the bride,

What the Press Agents Say

HIGH PRAISE GIVEN BY CRITICS TO "MANDY" SHOW.

High praise for "Come Along Mandy," which plays at the Masonic Monday night, is contained in press reviews received here today by Manager McKae. E. M. Holmes, critic of The Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch, says "Mandy, as a singing, dancing and comedy show is far ahead of Shuffle Along—there is not a hitch, not a line that is objectionable to anyone, of any race or creed, and the players devote all of their attention to the task of fun-making and succeed admirably."

While the cast of the production is composed of well known negro talent, headed by Salem Tutt Whitney and
J. Homer Tutt, the Ledger-Dispatch continues—"Come Along Mandy is not just a show for colored people it is an entertainment, that anyone fond of good singing and dancing will enjoy.

The show reflects great credit upon everyone who participated in staging it for the Southern tour. It seems made to order for the South where the real Southern negro makes his home."

TWO VERY NEWEST DANCE FROCKS

The Tube Silhouette Is Cleverly Preserved Even in Dance Dresses

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

THE vogue for the perfectly-straight frock of tube inspiration needs must find variation in frocks for certain occasions.

For instance, the frock for dancing cannot well remain as straight and narrow as the proverbial tube and at the same time offer sufficient width for dancing with comfort and grace.

The outcome of this need is the effective inset fullness, which imparts all the width that the dancer needs and at the same time does not interrupt the smart silhouette of the gown.

Consider the two dance models shown here.

At the left we have a charming frock marked by wide stripes, which alternate corn color and delicate pink. The gathered inset at the side shows vertical stripes by way of contrast, and these are held in place by a straight band of glittering rhinestones at the hip. Rhinestones reappear at the neckline, many strands of them forming the shoulder straps.

The frock at the right is of printed silver chiffon. The front fullness is a smart feature as well as the square neckline, which is cut high across the back of the neck.

Rhinestones Sparkle on This Corn and Pink Charmeuse Frock.

This Lovely Frock Is of Printed Silver Chiffon.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES Discontented Gold-Birds

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

SHE'S home again, poor thing—poor, restless, dissatisfied, ambitious, envious, unhappy thing.

Young, beautiful, rich—a husband who adores her, the world for a playground, any house she wants on earth to live in.

Any dress or any dozen dresses she happens to fancy, hers for the mere asking.

A string of black pearls—why, certainly, when will you want them delivered, or will you wear them now?

The great ruby of the Kahn of Tartary—the easiest thing in the world, and how becoming it will be to your black eyes, dear lady. Silks from the looms of Persia. Velvets so rich that they would hold the light like a field of purple heather.

Satin so glossy that they are like melted pearls fashioned into a fabric for the wearing of a princess of the blood.

Corals, oh, yes, they are the fad now, the pretty, rosy things—has my lady a fancy for them?—send the divers down into the deep blue, call the jewelers and the goldsmiths—strings of coral finer than any ever sold before—why they'll be ready in an amazingly short time.

Automobiles, a half dozen of them, an airplane moored in the waiting hangar. A yacht that cuts the water as a sharp knife cuts the cheese.

Sail boats, birch bark canoes—the sort that you sit in and feel as if you were a leaf floating down the river away, away to the open sea.

Music—the orchestras of the world are at your command.

Singers will live but to enchant your ear.

Mirrors from Venice and from Constantinople and the little dark shops on a certain little street in Paris where it costs you a fortune to step within the door—all for the reflection of the dark beauty of the Lady with the Dissatisfied Heart—and she weeps and mourns and will not be comforted, no, not she, though the whole world be turned into a pleasure ground for her and hers.

She wants to sing and she cannot do it.

Oh, yes, she can manage a ballad fairly well and it would not kill you or me to hear her sing something from the opera, but the critics will not have her. And when she tries to be a prima donna the theatre is empty.

And now she has just come back from a tour with a little cheap, second-class company. She used not her own name but another's and tried to sing her way into the hearts of a cheap audience, but she could not do it and she's at home in her magnificent marble house crying to death.

She is like a child reaching out her hands for a star—poor foolish thing. It is terrible to think about it.

Winifred Black

What a strange obsession, what a melancholy madness. "Do you know the most tragic thing in the world?" said the old poet who watches life go by and knows what he means when he says "tragedy."

"Just to have a penny's worth of talent and a dollar's worth of ambition."

Hunger, that can be satisfied. Thirst, that can be quenched. Weariness, that can be abated. Illness, that can be cured.

But genius—ah, that is a wild bird that will not be caught in any cage, no matter how hard you try.

No, not even if the cage is made of the purest gold.

WHERE THE GODDESS OF CHANCE STILL REIGNS.

THE lover of scenery will find nothing in the world more exquisite than the strip of French seacoast between Marseilles and the Italian frontier. And the most charming of all the towns set in among the abrupt hills which jostle into the blue Mediterranean is Monte Carlo.

Monte Carlo is the capital and most of the territory of the principality of Monaco, a microscopic nation surrounded by the Republic of France except upon the ocean side. Art and nature have combined here to make a picture of loveliness unequalled. The wealth drawn from the gambling rooms has been lavished upon the town. The Casino, the various hotels and clubs, the villas and cottages are all of an architecture beauty which make them stand apart from other Riviera towns.

The revenue of the Prince of Monaco is drawn from the gambling company which operates the Casino. This is the one spot in civilized Europe where gambling on a big scale is permitted. To be sure, at many French resorts are small gambling rooms where games are played with the odds so greatly in favor of the house that persons patronize them to the extent of small sums and purely for amusement. At Monte Carlo the Goddess of Chance is at home, untrammelled by laws and morals.

To enter the Casino an examination is necessary. For the privilege of losing your money you must relate your intimate details about yourself. The management is anxious to keep thieves and crooks generally from prying upon the guests, and many persons are refused admittance. Once inside you find half a dozen tables where roulette is played. Each table is in the shape of a cross with the wheel of the croupier at the center, and is surrounded by eager players.

In an inner room, to enter which another rite and higher fee are necessary, baccarat and rouge et noir are played.

The very high play does not take place in the Casino at all, and the nobility and crowned heads who visit Monte Carlo seldom enter the Casino. The International Sporting Club, a smaller Casino connected with the great Hotel de Paris, is the place where the renowned gamblers disport.

The main Casino contains a beautiful opera house and during the season the world's greatest artists appear in grand opera and ballet. The sumptuous Hotel de Paris, Europe's last word in luxury, which stands at one side of the Casino, and

YOUR HEALTH

Why You Should Keep Your Body Well-Balanced

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,

United States Senator from New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A SARCASTIC public official said of a less able colleague that the latter was suffering from "loss of parity, because he has the body of Webster and the mind of a pygmy."

We wonder that insipid and valueless utterances can come from a rugged, handsome, upstanding and apparently perfect physical being. It does seem as if there is sometimes a lack of parity between brain and body.

As the word parity is used in the anecdote, it refers, of course, to the close resemblance in outer qualities and form of an inferior man to one of intellectual greatness. But loss of parity is not confined to the difference between individuals. Too often there is lack of parity between the powers and capabilities of one organ or one part of the body and other organs or other parts of the body.

One good organ, like the heart, should be on a par with the kidneys and liver. It is not enough to have powerful lungs. It is just as essential to have a normal stomach and good eyes.

Some occupations are capable of developing certain groups of muscles, perhaps to the detriment of other muscles. This makes an unbalanced and abnormal body. Lack of symmetry is undesirable, not only because of its detrimental effects upon physical beauty, but also because it indicates a lack of the full measure of health. There can be no exceptional, continual good health unless all the organs share in the well-being.

I am talking about these matters because almost everybody gets unbalanced in one particular organ. For instance, one of the frequently expressed fears is that the "lungs are weak." Others talk about the ill-defined and always indefinite ailment, called "heart disease." In modern days it is not so common, but everybody used to dread "liver complaint."

You should not confine your study and attention to one part of your body. To the exclusion of all the rest. Every organ, every muscle, every portion of the anatomy should receive proportionate attention.

Fortunately there is a remarkable linking up of all the machinery of the body. When it is properly cared for, each and every part runs along without friction or consciousness of operation. That is the way it should be.

Your manner of living has everything to do with this matter. Without proper rest and sleep, there can be no hope of the daily recuperation which is absolutely essential to proper functioning of each and every organ.

It is not uncommon to find a young woman with shattered nerves and more or less serious heart disturbance. Examination reveals that she is anemic and has all the symptoms of anemia, including paleness of the skin and lips, prostration and heart murmur.

Too often this ailment is due to wrong eating and shallow breathing. Without proper food and oxygen there can be no health.

To avoid lack of parity in bodily functions there must be right living, so that the health of the whole body may be reflected in the well being of each single part.

Answers to Health Questions

J. A. R. Q.—My beard is very light in spots. What will stimulate its growth?

A.—I do not know of anything to remedy this condition. Cutting is a tendency to increase the growth of hair, if you wish to try this method.

MISS V. D. Q.—Will you kindly suggest a treatment for pyorrhea? I am very nervous and cannot go to a dentist.

A.—You must overcome this fear and consult a dentist without delay. If you believe you are suffering from pyorrhea. If taken in time the progress of this disease can be checked by proper treatment.

G. M. M. Q.—I am in the habit of taking hot showers and swimming every day. I have been told that if I do not oil my scalp my hair will fall out as the water will dry it. Is this true?

A.—I would advise you to wear a cap when taking a shower and swimming. It is best that you do not wet your hair so often.

A. L. W. H. Q.—For the past three years my face has been very oily. Kindly advise me what to do.

A.—Apply hot and cold compresses to your face alternately, for ten minutes each, daily. This will tend to help your condition.

W. D. M. R. Q.—My little girl catches cold very easily and coughs a great deal. Is there anything I can do to remedy this condition?

A.—I would suggest that you give your daughter one tablespoonful of cod liver oil after each meal. This will help improve her condition. Remember the value of sunlight and fresh air.

Here's a Fine Beauty Way to Make Your Waist Supple

By LUCREZIA BORI

The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

THE actress, much of whose success depends upon her beauty of face and figure, should be a constant inspiration to us.

Whenever we go to the theatre we see beautiful women—women whose slim figures and glowing complexions seem to be flawless. It is truly a joy to look upon them and be entertained by them. The only trouble is that too many of us go away without carrying with us the conviction that it is only by constant effort these beautiful creatures manage to appear so lovely.

Too many of us are prone to believe that all lovely actresses are privileged characters who are endowed with the double blessing of beauty and eternal youth.

But this is all a mistake. No woman keeps her slim, youthful figure and her flawless complexion without any expenditure of time and thought. It is true that occasionally we find the rare person who expect to retain the same slim figure.

You must work to keep your figure, and while this doesn't for the strenuous work that actresses do, it calls for the same kind of attention and regularity.

They know that you can't remain slim and beautiful if you lead an inactive, indulgent life, and they exercise accordingly. You know that preventive measures are preferable to the kind that cure. Remember this, and if you haven't already formed the exercise habit, learn to take an interest in easy exercises that promote beauty and grace. They help you keep slim and you find them interesting to do.

Here is an easy trunk-twisting exercise that I'm sure you will find to your liking:

Stand erect with your heels together, your right hand on your hip and your left arm extended loosely out at your side.

Now swing your left arm in a wide circle, reaching far to the side

never seems to refrain from eating that extra piece of chocolate, and yet never seems to suffer any bluishness of complexion or excess of flesh because of it. But these excesses must be few and far between, for nobody can steadily disregard the rules of health and beauty, and not suffer for it.

If you happen to have a lovely slim figure of which you are justly proud, don't feel that you can overeat and become lazy and lax about getting your exercise, and always and as far back as you can. Follow the movement with your body bending it from the waistline.

Change position, so that your left hand rests on your hip and your right arm is extended out at your side.

Repeat the movement. Go through this exercise ten or fifteen times, alternating your right and left arms.

You will find it a very helpful method to keep the muscles of your waist and thighs supple and strong.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Startled Query That Nearly Escaped Madge.

MRS. BIRD'S youthful driver lost no time in obeying Lillian's instruction to "beat it to Flushing."

With a wary eye for traffic officers he drove the car at a rattling pace through Brooklyn to Jamaica, and thence along the picturesque country road which connects that bustling borough with Flushing.

I did not speak to him until we were well out of the traffic, and then vaguely sensing that the boy, for he was little more, was so bristling with his experiences that he needed the relief of telling them, I broke the silence with a tentative:

"I see that you have your own car back again."

He hitched around in his seat abruptly, so that he could watch the road and talk at the same time.

"You bet," he said happily. "It didn't take long after I met you for me to get my friend on the telephone. He changed the license plates on my car for a pair he snatched off another in the shop, and then with mine along, too, he beat it down to the Manhattan Bridge—the Queensboro was too near where that bird lapped me to want to travel that way to-day. We met in a garage."

Both know not very far from the Manhattan Bridge, changed for my own license plates again, and then I beat it over here, while he loaded up again."

"You didn't see anything, then, of the man you?" I started to say "fearful," but changed it abruptly to "encountered."

"Neither hide nor hair," he returned, unconsciously relapsing into the vernacular of his unmistakable country childhood. "I suppose he's still cruising around the corner of Fifty-eighth and Lexington, or watching the Queensboro Bridge. Well, he'll wait quite a while for this rabbit to stick his head into the trap! And I've passed the word to some chaps that'll take care of him proper."

I shivered involuntarily, for there was something vaguely sinister in the boy's manner, and although I was sure that there was full justification for anything he might have planned for the "taking care" of the escaped criminal who was revenging himself by tracking him, yet I could not help wishing my journey in his enforced companion ship was over.

"Can You Fix It?"

We came into Flushing, of course upon another route than the one he had traveled, and in the outskirts of the borough the lad, with a quick look behind him, answered his question by pointing to the open door of a garage.

"There's a bolt loose on this steering gear, Mac," he announced to us as a short rusty-haired man stub up to us. "Can you fix it, quick? I'm in a awful hurry."

The man sent his head over steering gear, and I heard a murmured interchange of quick questions and answers whose purpose could not catch until the last, from the lips of my driver—

body here?"

"Then, Missis," my driver turned to me—"please pull those curtains down on both sides back there and move over in the corner back of me. I'll attend to these."

To my great disgust I found my fingers trembling as I released the spring in the curtains, for both men were visibly tense and excited, and I wondered what might not have gone wrong at Mrs. Bird's house.

I made no attempt to find out, however, as at that minute we were very close to the interior of the car and curiously shielded from any observation, although from my position behind the driver I was able to see where we were going.

What Troubled Madge.

It was not long before we came to the side road which led toward the bay, and from which the driver turned to the ash-strewn alley at the rear of the row of ample old homessteads of which Mrs. Bird's house was one. The alley was as deserted as we had left it save for a costly high-powered car drawn up at one side near the entrance, its nose turned toward the Boulevard street.

The driver shot a sharp glance at it, then chuckled audibly.

"Whoever owns that isn't going to take any chances," he said. "If anybody comes out from our house over this route to-night, that lad is ready to follow 'em to the hot place and back again. There's another one I'll bet, loitering around the boulevard in the front of the house."

I closed my lips tightly, for I did not wish the frantic query on my lips to escape. With all exits from the house guarded in the way that we were going to spirit the Harison children off to the steamer on which Alfred Durkee had gaged their passage?

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens. I am considered good-looking but young men do not seem to take any interest in me. I have had young men take me home from parties, but they do not take to me as they do to my girl friends. My girl friends often have beaux and dates but I never have any.

There is one young man in whom I am especially interested, but he doesn't pay the slightest attention to me. Whenever I am at a party the young men take to my girl friends but not to me. It is very embarrassing to be left standing alone. I don't seem to be able to push myself forward as other girls do.

Please advise me what to do.

CURLY.

I am afraid you are a little self-conscious and unappreciative of your own ability to attract people. When you are out with your friends do not stay in a corner alone. It is not the wish of the young men at the party that you stand all by yourself, my dear.

You simply fail to join in the fun of the others and seclude yourself. If you will put all thought of your unpopularity out of your mind and interest yourself in the young men whom you meet, you

THE HOME KITCHEN

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON

The Authority on Home Cooking

Some Unusual and Delicious Hot Breads.

HOT bread of some sort always makes a breakfast more inviting and perhaps the quick hot breads seem most tempting of all.

A special old-fashioned bread is made by making a portion of the bread dough which has risen over night into little rolls. Let them puff up, then drop them into hot fat and cook them a delicate brown. This bread is eaten hot with butter and sugar or a little maple syrup. This special bread used to be considered a Sunday morning treat as it takes a little time to prepare. Sometimes, enough dough was taken for a pan of raised biscuits, which raised in the pan to double their size in half an hour and were baked for breakfast.

The following tried and true recipes may suggest new ways of doing old things.

English Cream Scones.

Sift a half pound of flour into a bowl with a tablespoonful of salt, three ounces of fresh butter and a teaspoonful of baking powder. When these ingredients are well mixed, add a gill of milk and a half gill of heavy cream. Roll the dough on a floured board to a quarter inch thickness, cut it with a small cutter, place it on a buttered baking-tin and bake it fifteen minutes, then brush over the scones with a little sweetened milk and bake them five minutes longer.

Aniseed Biscuits.

Mix four eggs with one and a half pounds of powdered sugar. Stir the mixture fifteen minutes, then add a pound and a half of sifted flour and mix all well. Work in a tablespoonful of soft butter. Roll the dough thin and cut it into small cakes. Butter an iron baking sheet and lay the cakes on it. Sprinkle them with a tablespoonful of anise seed and let the biscuits stand and dry over night. The next morning bake them in a moderate oven and serve them hot for breakfast.

Cornmeal Griddle Cakes.

Put into a mixing bowl a cupful each of cornmeal and flour. Add three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two level teaspoonfuls of salt and a teaspoonful of sugar. Beat three eggs add them to a pint of milk then beat them into the dry mixture. When all the ingredients are blended pour them into a pitcher. Have the griddle hot and greased and cook the pancakes as usual. This quantity should make about three dozen cakes. Serve plenty of good butter and maple syrup with the cakes.

PROTECTION AND CAPITAL
LEVY VIEWS OF MACDONALD

LONDON—Much importance is being attached to the statement of Premier MacDonald on capital levy and protection made during his speech in the house of commons. The text of his statement regarding the two subjects follows:

"Capital levy is in exactly the same position as protection. It cannot be enacted in this parliament. We shall not deal with capital levy. No change of that character can be made until a majority of the country is in favor of it. I have not the least doubt that Mr. Chamberlain will go on propagating his doctrine of protection, but until he or somebody else produces some scheme which will save this country from the exceedingly bad effects, as I think, of a too heavy national debt, increasing the cost of production, diminishing the purchasing power of money, oppressing the wage-earning classes in mass, as I think, until the national debt is diminished and paid by honest means, I regard two means as dishonest, one repudiation and the other inflation—until the national debt is paid off—"paid off" is too long—until the national debt is diminished, until its burden becomes of the nature that can be borne by the people, by the whole body of producers, functions of master and man and so on, I cannot be happy, because I do not believe the country is going to be free to compete in the markets of the world as soon as we enjoy normal conditions again."

REMOTE ARCTIC ISLANDERS
WEAR DOUBLE FUR COATS

FAIRBANKS—A glimpse of life on a remote island in the Arctic ocean was afforded by E. W. Wyant, a trader, who stopped here this winter on his way from San Francisco back to his distant post.

On Bailey island, 250 miles east of the mouth of the Mackenzie river, where Wyant has been in business since 1917, the wind blows, he averred, at a speed fit to make Alaska's winter blasts seem summer zephyrs. Nevertheless he was of the opinion that a dirigible like the Shenandoah would be able to reach the North Pole by flying over his territory in summer.

Leaving the island with its 20 inhabitants last summer on a whaler for San Francisco, Wyant made the voyage in three months. He was here on his way "mushing" overland, and expected that supplies which he had bought to last several years would arrive next August by water.

When one travels in his neighborhood, Wyant related, one wears two suits of deer skin, a suit with the fur turned out and one with the fur turned in. Fur coats $16 a hundred pounds and bacon a $1.25 a pound.

Last year the colony of 20 took 20,000 pelts, principally of white fox.

Glasgow Courts Return Costly
Cross To Italian Parish Priest

LONDON—After several years of litigation in Glasgow courts, a Byzantine cross, incriminated in jewels and valued at more than $1,000,000 has been ordered to be returned to the parish priest of a church in the province of Aquila, Italy, to which it once belonged.

There were two claimants to the property, an Italian ice-cream shop assistant of Glasgow named Attilio Franche, and the priest of the parish in Aquila. The cross disappeared from the church in 1918 and was not heard of until May, 1921, when Franche offered it for sale in Glasgow. Franche's story was that he found it in the ruins of his family castle after the earthquake at Messina. The court, however, did not see anything in common with the earthquake and the jeweled cross.

DYNAMITE SMUGGLING GAINS
IN SOUTHERN PHILIPPINES

MANILA—Smuggling of dynamite from British North Borneo into the Sulu archipelago is increasing despite the efforts of the Philippine customs authorities. The dynamite is chiefly used by the Moros to kill fish in the waters of the southern islands, although the practice has been prohibited by law for many years.

The Moros, who are familiar with all the small coves and harbors, are able to evade the customs authorities who have only a limited patrol service in that region. In their fast vintas (native sailboats) the Moros are able to load their cargoes of dynamite and frequently a shipment of opium, on the Borneo coast and under cover of darkness slip across to one of the small islands in the Sulu group, only a few miles away.

Only in rare instances are these smugglers caught, customs officials say.

SCOURGE DRIVES SETTLERS
HOME FROM SOUTH SEAS

PAPEETE—One of the perils that menace the settler in the South Sea Islands is the strange disease called elephantiasis. This malady which is prevalent on Tahiti and the neighboring islands, is an affection of the lymphatic system caused by the invasion of a microscopic worm called "filarii Sanguinis."

There is a wide difference of opinion as to how the infection enters the system. Some investigators declare that the mosquito plays host to the worm until he enters the human body with the mosquito's attack thereon; others believe that the infection comes from drinking impure water, while the natives hold that the disease is contracted from walking in certain infected districts, through the pores of the feet, in much the same manner that hookworm invades the body.

Many Europeans who have settled in the various islands have contracted the disease. Indeed, on some islands every European resident suffers from it in a more or less advanced stage.

Elephantiasis takes the form of a chronic intermittent chill and fever, with inflammation and swelling of the lymphatics. With each attack a deposit of morbid lardaceous matter is left in the tissues of the arms and legs and in time these become permanently deformed and of prodigious size.

The only treatment is residence in a cold climate. For this reason a goodly number of whites who have settled in the islands during the past few years, and who do not know how to take care of themselves in the tropics, have been compelled to abandon their home and go to a cold country for a prolonged sojourn.

Americans Disappoint Germans

In Berlin's Six-Day Bicycle Race
BERLIN—The performance of five American riders who participated in a six-day bicycle race here recently was a disappointment generally to the Berlin sport writers who agreed that the Americans by no means made the showing that was expected of them.

Fred Taylor, of Newark, N. J., and Harry Kaiser of the Bronx, N. Y., finished fourth in the race, while Percy Lawrence and Willie Hanley, both of San Francisco, were sixth. Hans Orth, also of San Francisco, paired with a German rider, was not among the prize winners. The race was won by a German team which far outdistanced all competitors.

CAPT. CHARLIE ALTROCK
TELLS HIS EXPERIENCE

Gives Tanlac Credit For Bringing Him to "Port of Good Health." Was Weak as a Sail Without a Wind.

A picturesque man of the sea is "Captain Charlie" (F. C.) Altrock, that genial and hearty mariner who for the past twenty years has been operating motor boats and small steamers in Norfolk harbor. And it was in the typical language of the sea that "Captain Charlie" recently paid tribute to Tanlac, the medicine which he declares has brought him "to the port of good health" again.

"My appetite and stomach, mutilated," says he, "and I couldn't even eat my favorite sea foods. I nearly forgot how to sleep and felt as weak and flabby as a sail without any wind in it. Many days I wouldn't even take my boat out. My liver was sluggish as an old mud scow overloaded with harbor dreggings and it looked like I'd be a landlubber the rest of my days."

"But Tanlac took me off the rocks and brought me into port in the finest kind of trim. With all my ailments settled, I eat and digest everything, sleep like a log and feel so fine I never get too heavy a cargo to suit me. I always keep a bottle of Tanlac aboard."

"Captain Charlie" resides at 3-1-2

"Bake with Dainty Flour and you WILL Eat More Wheat"

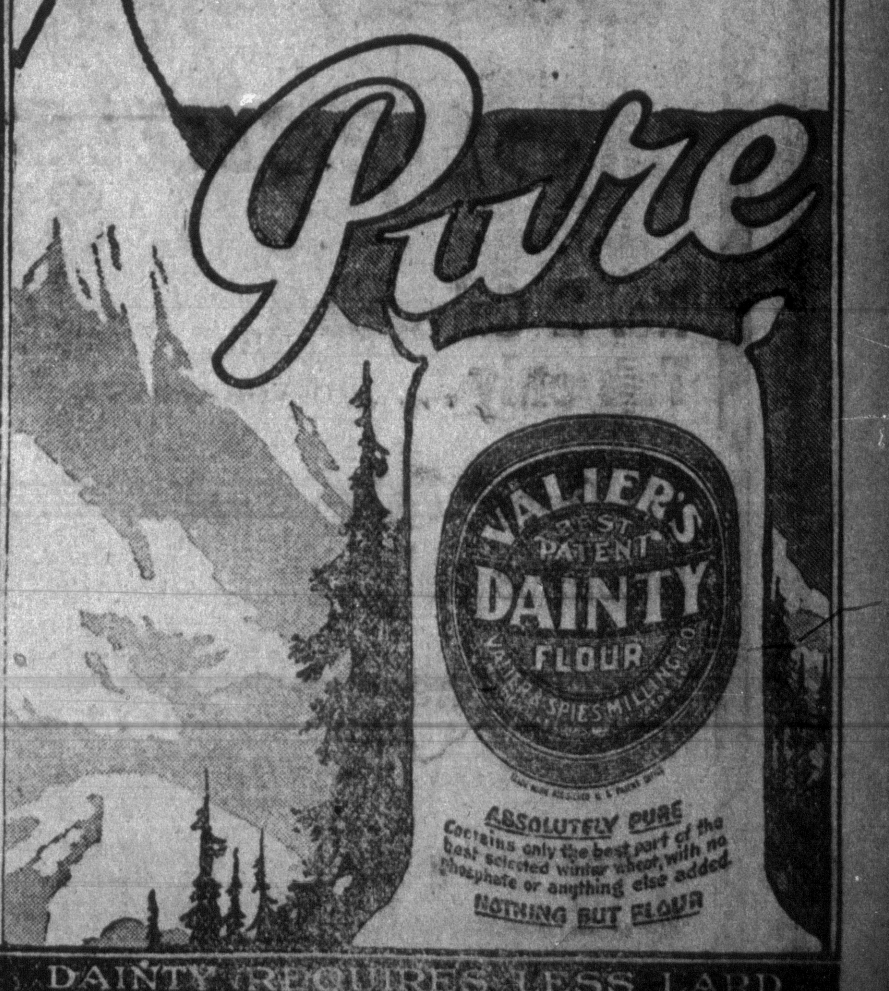

"That's the way I get my family to follow the oft repeated advice. I use Dainty Flour for all my baking. It makes everything taste better—biscuits, rolls, cakes, pies, cookies. So the whole family eats more wheat than ever before. Your family will eat more wheat too if you bake with Dainty."

Dainty Flour is always made of the highest grade soft wheat—and only the choicest part of the kernels at that. It is absolutely pure; no phosphate or anything else is added.

Because of favorable crop conditions, the difference between the price of Dainty and ordinary flour is less than in years. It is real economy to pay the few extra cents a sack of Dainty costs.

FLEET RUNNERS AND 38 SPECIAL STOP ALLEGED JEWELRY THIEF

A lively race was staged at an early hour Thursday morning starting at the jewelry establishment of Messrs. Wiggins and Martin, an alleged negro jewelry thief being the object of the capture, and at least four or five citizens being in pursuit.

Ollie Martin, who runs the jewelry department of this establishment, missing a ring or rings a few days ago, and suspicion pointed to the negro who was captured after a lively race, as being the thief. A trap was set for him Thursday morning a ring being placed on the showcase, the proprietor turning his back and walking a few steps away, and returning, found the ring missing. The negro started to leave the store when he was halted, and asked to bring forth the ring. After some little argument he complied. Then he was questioned about the other rings, sustaining his innocence. So acute did the questioning become, he admitted taking them and said he would pay for them. This didn't suit the jeweler, as he proceeded to press his claim, the negro taking to his heels, and soon there were three or four in hot pursuit, Mr. Martin being one of the party.

He was pursued about a mile north of town, throwing off his overcoat to aid him in his escape and being overhauled further by a shot from a 38 special, he decided he had better stop which he did, and was lodged in the county jail. The negro's plan was to bring some little worthless thing to the jewelry store for repair, and watching his chances would take whatever he could get his hands on. Several homes have been entered here recently in day light.

FIELD DAY EXERCISES FOR MORGAN COUNTY.

Preparations on a large scale are being carried forward here by those who have in charge the success of Morgan county field day for the schools of this county, and March 28 has been officially set as the day. Many of the rural schools have disbanded since the 7th day of March when it was announced that the exercises would be held, and extra inducements are being offered to the rural schools to have a full attendance of the scholars who attended the session. The merchants and other business men of Hartselle have offered a cash prize of $25, to the rural school having the largest attendance here on field day.

Ordinarily there is always between three and four thousand pupils who attend these exercises and if the day is pretty it is expected that this attendance will be here on the occasion, March 28.

MUCH LUMBER BEING SHIPPED.

On one mill yard here it is estimated that there is at this time a million and a half feet of native lumber, which is being shipped at the rate of a car load a day. This mill runs a planer and makes a specialty of building material. There is also another mill here and planer, which carries something like the same amount and is also a large shipper of building material. Taking into account the extreme rough winter prevailing, this is quite a feather in the cap of this place as a lumber market. Practically all of which comes from the small mills adjacent to this place in the country roundabout.

FARMERS GETTING ANXIOUS TO BEGIN THEIR FARM WORK.

Farmers of this section are becoming resolute over the continued wet weather and unseasonable temperature prevailing over the Tennessee Valley. Up to this time practically nothing has been done toward the coming crop, and land intended for cultivation this season is yet to be turned.

Cotton planting time is less than 30 days away, and in a large majority of cases the stalks are yet to be cut and turned under or either burned. Another heavy rain visited this section Thursday morning, adding new hindrances to the work of beginning, as the streams will overflow again, and were hardly in bank following the excessive rains for the past ten days.

Planters, are yet optimistic, and the very first opportunity given them to work they will respond, with a degree of determination which will overcome many of the drawbacks already encountered.

P. T. A. TO STAGE PLAY.

The local P. T. A., an organization which has done much during the last two years to help the work of the schools here, will give a play Friday evening in the city school auditorium for the benefit of the high school loan fund. For sometime they have been working on the plans, and have succeeded in enlisting for help of some of the best local talent here in the presentation.

EARLY BEGINNING OF WATER WORKS ASSURED BY WATER WORKS COMPANY.

The waterworks company having the franchise to install an adequate system of water for the town, has given definite assurance that operations will be begun just as soon as weather conditions permit. Representatives of the company were here a few days ago, and stated that everything was ready to begin.

In the plan several fire plugs are to be installed, and when completed the city will have a fire department added to the city, and it is expected to arrange for equipment for same on a scale which will give protection.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY INSTALLING LOCAL OFFICE.

The Alabama Power company is fixing up one of the brick business houses on Main street to maintain an office here for all the Hartselle operations. It is understood that they will carry considerable equipment at this point, and being on the ground it is expected to be of great service to its patrons here.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY COMPLETES SERVICE STATION.

The fire proof service accessory station which has been in course of erection by the Standard Oil Company for the past three weeks is now completed and will be taken over and operated by J. L. Sharpley, local garage man.
